

SHORTAGE IN HAY CROPS WILL NOT AFFECT PRICE OF MILK

At Least Not Until the Winter Months—Conditions Normal Around Edmonton

BAD IN UNITED STATES

But Supply of Milk Could Be Greatly Increased Here By Scientific Methods

"I do not think that the price of milk will have an increase in the immediate future nor in the autumn, but it can reasonably be expected to have a rise in the early part of the winter."

When asked by The Capital if the shortage of this year's hay crop will have an effect upon the price of milk, Mr. Andrew Logan, the civic milk inspector, replied in the above terms. The shortage in hay crop will not take any effect until then on account of the fact that dairymen as a rule do not commence the house feeding of their cattle until late in the season. Until then cattle will be self-sustaining and no inroads will be made in the house feed.

Unsystematic Now

The price of milk at present is 20 cents a quart and is at least higher than in most other places. This is due in no small degree to the unsystematic methods of dairymen adopted by the farmers of this district, and until the farmers and dairymen start grading, which consists of the culling out of inferior stock, and adopt scientific methods, the price of milk will maintain its present high rate. The settling up of the country by a dairymen class also would have much to do in the lowering of the price of milk.

Is Lower in London, Eng.

Mr. Logan bases his opinion on British conditions. It sounds peculiar that in the city of London, Eng., the price of milk is lower than it is here, while this is an agricultural country. In England, of course, living is cheaper and in consequence the cost of labor is lower, but to offset these advantages, there are the high rents and taxes. There is about one dairymen in a hundred among those that supply the city of London with milk that own their own lands.

The explanation is that the dairymen methods are more up-to-date and scientific. There is no waste, and the feeding of cattle is governed by ratio, while here, many points, the observing of which are in the main responsible for the low cost of milk in Britain, are entirely disregarded.

Normal Volume of Milk

The volume of milk supplied to the city at the present time is normal, but normal conditions here, would elsewhere be considered abnormally poor. The average yield per cow per annum in this district is about 400 gallons, while in dairymen should be satisfied with a row that does not supply at least 600 gallons per annum. In fact, a fair and reasonable average yield is considered to be 1000 gallons per annum. This for a milking year, which usually consists of ten months. It can be obviously seen, therefore, that there is something radically wrong with local conditions, and the fault is just as Mr. Logan explains it—that the methods are poor and old-fashioned, and that changes must be made generally among the dairymen of this community before satisfactory results can be obtained. This is very important, in that the price of milk is governed by it.

Hay Prices Are High

There is no doubt that there is a shortage in the hay crop this year. Conditions are especially bad in the south, while the north is had enough. As a result many southern cattle owners are importing cattle from the north or else sending their cattle up here to be fed. This latter method is considered more desirable, and proving its desirability is contained in the fact that an acre of ground in the north is sold for less than a ton of hay, and it will not be surprising if a ton of hay will not eventually double in value as the price of an acre of land. And as a natural result many southerners are seriously thinking of sending their cattle into the north country to be fed.

Is Bad in Illinois

At the same time the conditions in Northern Alberta are radically different from those in some of the states. There is going to be a milk shortage in Chicago this season, owing to the drought.

"Illinois is suffering from the most severe drought of years," said James P. Grif, secretary of the Milk Producers Association, in a recent interview. "The milk yield has fallen off two and one-half tons on account of the burned up condition of the pastures."

This statement of fact is in wonderful contrast to the visions of Mr. M. Marchand, the U. S. statistician, who sees thousands of Americans fleeing from Alberta back to the States—and to the conditions described by Mr. Grif.

TWELVE HUNDRED ENTRIES FOR FAIR

Livestock Exhibits Will Be Best Ever Seen in the Province

EDMONTON "EX." NOTES

Directors Want a General Holiday in Town on Thursday of Fair Week

One hundred and twenty-five more entries have been received at the offices of the Edmonton Exhibition which brings the total entries up to date to twelve hundred. The entries this year are exceeding the expectations of everyone and there is no doubt now that the live stock will be the strongest show in the history of Edmonton.

The greatest care is being taken over the transport arrangements to the grounds. The C. N. R. will run a fifteen minute train service to the grounds as also will the G. T. P.; the fare being fifteen cents. The street railway will run a strong service of cars to the fair and the city transport company are arranging for an omnibus service at 25 cents for the round trip.

Ask for Holiday
Last night a meeting of the directors of the association was held, with President Campbell in the chair, when it was decided that Thursday, August 25, will be the big day at the Exhibition. The directors will ask all the stores and places of business to close for the whole day. On Saturday at 3 p.m. the directors will meet at the grounds to make the final arrangements for opening day.

The physicians shortly before 6 o'clock gave out the following bulletin: "Mayor Gaynor has passed a restful night. His condition this morning is satisfactory. Pulse, temperature and respiration are practically normal."

Any persons who have private rooms to let during exhibition week are requested to send their names to the manager of the Association, McDonald Court. Although Edmonton has excellent hotel accommodation, there being twenty-two hotels in the city, it is thought that there will be a menagerie of visitors during the week.

FIRST RAIN SINCE 11 MARCH AT KENORA

Over Two Inches of the Gentle Fell Last Night—Fires Now Checked

Kenora, Ont., Aug. 16.—The first heavy rain since March 16th this year fell last night when the precipitation between eight in the evening and four in the morning amounted to considerably over two inches. It was accompanied by a violent electrical disturbance which put the power plant out of business for some time and plunged the town into darkness. The numerous fires which have been burning have been checked through the standing timber in many localities. As a natural result many southerners are seriously thinking of sending their cattle into the north country to be fed.

Commissioner Bouillon Gets New System for Purchasing for Purchasing Department

Owing to the fact that the system in vogue in the city purchasing department is inadequate and unbusinesslike, Commissioner Bouillon has framed up a set of regulations for the benefit of the officials in charge of that department, and also for the heads of other civil departments.

Bakers Undecided as to Whether They Will Raise the Price of Bread

It is uncertain whether the price of bread will go up or not. In Winnipeg bread is dearer and the Edmonton bakers are in a state of indecision as to what to do.

Messrs. C. W. Campbell state that the price of their bread will not go up. Haller and Aldridge say they will not act with any other bakery firm in the city, in the matter, but if the prices are raised they will follow them.

At Dodge & Company's bakery there is considerable indecision, as it is found that they cannot afford to sell the bread at the present rate. The Home Bakery will not raise the price unless flour gets considerably dearer than it is at present. The situation is at a deadlock at present and it is thought that the bakers will wait for further information as to whether the prices of flour will be steady or rise any more.

GAYNOR'S CONDITION PRACTICALLY NORMAL

Stronger and Better Today Than at Anytime Since He Was Shot

New York, Aug. 16.—Mayor Gaynor continues along the path of recovery and when he awoke today he seemed to be stronger and better than at any time since he was shot. Danger of infection is almost absent but everything is in readiness should circumstances render an operation necessary. Mayor Gaynor is being kept very quiet and his visitors are permitted to see him. Should no complications develop it is believed that Mayor Gaynor can be taken to the camp of a friend in the Adirondacks in about two weeks.

The physicians shortly before 6 o'clock gave out the following bulletin: "Mayor Gaynor has passed a restful night. His condition this morning is satisfactory. Pulse, temperature and respiration are practically normal."

BRINGS SHEEP TO PASTURES GREEN

Southern Rancher Brought Seven Hundred Sheep to the Edmonton District

As evidence of the fact that many southern cattle owners are giving serious thought to the advisability of sending their cattle to this district for feeding purposes, a man from the dry belt arrived here yesterday with seven hundred head of sheep which will be placed on pasture at a point on the G. T. P. west of Edmonton. This man in particular had very hard luck this season, his crops having suffered heavily from hail. On the occasion of one severe hailstorm his property sustained much damage, while the property adjoining escaped injury, the storm apparently jumping to the extent of three quarters of a mile and continuing its devastation on the other side.

The action of southerners in taking advantage of the conditions in the north in the bringing of their cattle to this district will likely have the good effect of reducing the apathy which southern people have delighted to indulge in towards the north.

COUNCIL TO TALK ABOUT HOSPITAL

Alderman Gariepy Thinks Conditions Are Unfortunate—Individual Room System

WOULD COST TOO MUCH

Superintendent of Ontario Sanatorium Says Danger of Infection Is Unavoidable

Dr. A. E. Hobbs, superintendent of the Homeview Sanatorium, of Guelph, Ont., who is a visitor in the city, has made the statement that he considers that the city is in no way liable for damages in connection with the recent charges made against the isolation hospital. He states that such cases are liable to rise in every locality and that in several places in Ontario a like condition of affairs is existing. He says that the isolation hospital is a charitable institution and that many cases are treated there free of charge, and that if any case is taken to prevent the contraction by patients of other diseases while in the hospital, there are no grounds for damage suits.

Have Individual Rooms?

Many people believe that there is not sufficient isolation within the hospital, and that any patient stands a chance of contracting another disease, while being treated for the one for which he was admitted. It is thought that the ward system is responsible for such cases as the two that have arisen in the past few days. If wards were abolished and separate rooms arranged for the treatment of patients, the danger of infection from other patients suffering from another disease would be reduced to a minimum.

When asked about the above suggestion, Ald. Gariepy stated that to carry it into effect would require quite an expenditure. He thought, however, that something ought to be done to alter the condition of affairs at the hospital.

Ald. Gariepy Dissatisfied

"It is an unfortunate thing," said Ald. Gariepy, "that a person should be removed from their home and taken to a place where isolation is expected and there contract a disease which is worse than the original ailment. It is particularly hard upon poor people, who cannot afford to be treated at their homes and must go to the hospital and run such chances." The complaints of the parents of Minnie Hoffman, and of Mr. James Furlong, will be discussed at the regular meeting of the city council tonight.

At the regular meeting of the board of trade held at noon today, the board reads a report from Mr. S. W. Cuddy, agent of the board at Calgary, was presented in the form of two letters which contained the information that the exhibit of Edmonton products was attracting a lot of attention in the southern city, and that the opposition to the offer there was falling away, the Calgary people being glad to see that the failure of this year's crop was only partial.

Mr. Candy stated that he had many visitors and that he had been successful in directing quite a number to the Edmonton district. He states further that he had received an offer of quarters in Lethbridge for exhibition purposes free of charge, and requested authority to take advantage of the offer, and assistance in the arranging of an exhibit there. Mr. Candy's report was received with applause and it was decided to take advantage of the Lethbridge offer.

TO FINISH SURVEY BEFORE ICE COMES

Engineer Voligny Says Survey of Saskatchewan River Is Proceeding Rapidly

The engineer in charge of the Saskatchewan river government survey, Mr. Voligny, arrived at the Alberta last night from Calgary. "The survey is proceeding very satisfactorily," he said this morning to a Capital reporter, "and everything is running smoothly."

When asked how long it would be before the survey would be completed, he said:

"We hope to get through before the ice comes, but we are not certain yet."
Mr. Voligny is looking for men in town to replace those who have left the work. "The men, you know," he said, "are just beginning to know the work and we're getting along much faster than we did at first." He will leave town shortly to join his party again.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 16.—A man answering the description of Moir, the escaped murderer from the Hamilton asylum, went into Garner's refreshment booth at Riverdale park yesterday and ordered ice cream. Then he wanted two dishes, finally four dishes, and then finally declined to pay for them. Suddenly placing his hand in his pocket, the stranger said as he put out his empty hand.

"Here is a twenty dollar bill. Give me the change or I'll have you arrested."

He then went out upon the track and was not seen again.

SUBCONTRACTORS STARTED WORK ON THE EXCAVATIONS FOR THE SUBSTRUCTURE DURING THE AFTERNOON—AFTER MANY, MANY MONTHS OF DELAY THE HIGH LEVEL BRIDGE IS ACTUALLY STARTED—WILL RUSH WORK.

With the placing of a gang of twenty men on the north side of the river to begin the grading of the foundation of the land piers, yesterday afternoon, the work on the construction of the high level bridge between Strathcona and Edmonton, which has been the chief topic of interest to the people of both cities for so long, got finally under way.

The local contracting firm of Pennie and Kerr were awarded the sub-contract for all the excavation work, and they intend to rush it to completion. They expect to place an additional gang on the opposite side of the river and start grading there so that the banks may be ready for the installation of the piers in the shortest time possible.

It was expected that the work would have begun yesterday morning, but owing to the fact that the contractors for the excavation work did not put in an appearance, it was delayed.

On the completion of the grading, work will start on the erection of the piers. Before this can be begun it will be necessary to engage a large amount of labor and to erect the necessary machinery. Work will continue through night and day until completion is realized, the night shift carrying on construction by the aid of a string of arc lights which will be strung from bank to bank. Prior to the erection of the river piers coffer dams will have to be built, so that the swift current of the water can be diverted.

HE BOUGHT THE POISON

While the Constable Stood Near By—Taken to Hospital, But Died

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 16.—F. H. Knight, a farmer of Rosewood, Man., was yesterday morning engaged in beating his wife to death, when the hired man interrupted him. Knight immediately ran to the barn, setting it on fire. He then hid from the hired man, and Mrs. Knight, who despite her terrible injuries, succeeded in getting the stock out, and then a warrant having been secured, Constable Clayton arrested Knight. The latter claimed to have drunk carbolic acid, but seemingly did not suffer much.

He was brought to Winnipeg yesterday afternoon. A hundred yards from the depot, the prisoner decided to enter Andrews' drug store to telephone a lawyer. On entering he remained at the door and Constable Clayton, going to the phone made arrangements for meeting with the lawyer. Meanwhile Knight asked for strychnine to poison gophers. The clerk, knowing Knight, but not knowing that he was in custody, as the constable was in plain clothes, gave him the poison, making him sign the poison book in front of the unsuspecting constable. A block from the drugstore Knight wanted to go to a laundry and was taken into the Occidental Hotel. Unnoticed he took the poison. Shortly after, falling in a fit, he was rushed to the general hospital, but in vain, for he died a few hours later.

They have now been taken to the Brandon asylum and their children (six in number) will be cared for at the detention home.

THIRD STREET PAVING

City Will Save Money by Having Motor in One End Only of Street Cars

The application of a citizen of Edmonton to be permitted to erect a single storey building on Jasper avenue gave rise to a discussion of the validity of the building bylaw at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the city commissioners. In Commissioner Bouillon's opinion there was nothing by which a citizen of the city could be prevented from erecting such a building even within the first class fire limits. The mayor, on the other hand, differed and insisted that the bylaw be enforced, while City Solicitor Brown stated that the provisions of the bylaw could not be waived without the repealing of the bylaw. Commissioner Bouillon suggested that steps be taken to prevent the erection of high buildings and thought that the limit should be fixed at the width of the street. It was decided, however, that the application should be refused.

Will Save Money

That a saving of from $10,000 to $20,000 will be made annually by the city, by the policy of the commissioners in ordering single end cars, is the estimate made by Commissioner Bouillon. This will be caused by the lesser number of motors required and by the keen competition between electrical firms.

It was decided that another snow sweeper be purchased at a cost of $1,345.

The city solicitor was asked to report on the claim of James Furlong for damages in connection with his contracting snailpox at the isolation hospital.

The commissioners decided to demolish part of the power house and rebuild it at once on a substantial basis.

Paving on Third Street

The council will be asked to decide this evening between two proposals as to the expenditure of the unused part of the appropriations for this year's paving. The first of these proposals is to carry out the original intentions of paving one block of Third Street, with bituminous. The second is to utilize the wood blocks that have been removed from the car tracks, and which are said to be in good condition.

The city engineer was requested to report on the appeal against the special assessment made on 60 lots in Norwood, which was entered on the grounds that no sewers have been put in.

"It is not permitted, for any person to lie down in a berth with their boots or shoes on, under penalty of $1.50."

TOM THUMB OF CHIMPANZEES
Smallest of His Race on Record Lands in America from East Africa

New York—Out of German East Africa came the very smallest chimpanzee in the world to the Bronx zoo yesterday. The arrival was taken right over to the curator's office for a formal reception and was there found to be 13 inches tall with two years of age, and a weight of 11½ pounds to its credit.

Dr. W. Reed Blair, the animal's physician, said that the creature was the finest specimen of chimpanzee that he had ever seen and that he would have it in his special care.

Improvised snarl bars were set up in the office and upon them the animal gleefully performed without urging. It then solemnly undid itself and threw an inkwell at one of the keepers, who, dodging, picked up the beast and put it in a cage in the monkey house.

As yesterday's heat was oppressive at the zoo it is probable that the chimpanzee will be called henceforth "Blazes."

WINTER LAYING HENS

In its ten years of effort to increase the winter laying of hens, Macdonald college, Montreal, has accustomed hardy breeds like Plymouth Rocks, to stretch to snow and obtain their food by scratching all day in a foot of straw covering the yards. The active exercise prevents the accumulation of fat. The hens and their progeny live in unheated houses, and with good feeding average 200 eggs a year, nearly one-fourth of which are produced during the severe cold of the Canadian winter.

Sympathetic.

When the young husband arrived home from the office he found his wife in tears. "Oh, John," she added, "I had baked a lovely loaf and put it on the back porch for the frosting to dry, and the dog ate it." "Well, don't cry," about it dear," he gently said, "I know a man who will give us another dog."

Burgomaster Coming

Wm. P. Cullen's great revival of Pixley and Lander's masterpiece of musical comedy, "The Burgomaster," will be seen at the Empire next Monday. Our favorite Gus C. Weinburg will be seen in his original part of Peter Stuyvesant, the governor of New Amsterdam, and will be supported by a company of fifty people. The costumes are especially handsome this year, and the production is new. Much that is novel has been installed in the way of electrical effects. Some of the scenes have been revised, and the dances are all new. The chorus is said to be one of the strongest singing aggregations on the stage.

"A Night at Coney Island"

A good show with all the trimmings of a musical comedy is the show Sherman's Musical Comedy Company is offering their patrons this week. "A Night at Coney Island," is the title of this laughable burlesque and it is a grand yell all the way from the start to the finish.

Every member is well cast and Tom Beeson is doing another funny Irish comedy part this week which is far in advance of anything he has done so far.

The chorus are nicely drilled this week and show a lot of skill in all their work. Their singing and dancing is well executed and a harder working bunch is not often found as they try to make every number stand out in its brightest colors. They are very prettily dressed this week, and in fact the whole show is far better dressed than the most of these musical shows that are on the road.

WOMAN EDITOR GAVE BATTLE

Three Constables Trying to Eject Her Are Confronted With a Baseball Bat

Passaic, N.J., Three constables were called to eject a woman editor from her office today found themselves against the power of the press. She refused to obey the court order of ejection, armed herself with a baseball bat and a long tapin, and set up such a fight against the constables that they were compelled to call in Patrolman De Vries. De Vries is a moral suasion artist and things quieted down shortly after he entered the building.

The woman who defended her office is Mrs. Emma Lindenstruth, editor of the Passaic Wochenblatt, a German weekly newspaper. Constables Garrett Green, John Gordon and Sander Weiss were the constables whom her intelligence daunted.

Before Mrs. Lindenstruth's husband died, two and a half years ago, he purchased the property in which the incident occurred today. The seller was Louis White. Payments for the property were to be made in installments under the contract. Lindenstruth made two payments and died. Mrs. Lindenstruth failed to pay the additional installments on the balance of $200. Instead she took out naturalization papers and prepared to fight

HARVEST STARTS NEAR MOOSE JAW

Binders Will Be at Work This Week if the Weather Clears Up

Moose Jaw, Sask., Aug. 16.—With favorable weather, harvesting will begin in Moose Jaw district this week. A good deal of grain was cut last week and farmers everywhere were planning on starting the binders yesterday. This morning, however, rain prevented this. Heavy showers fell again during last night and the weather is threatening today. As soon as it is clear once more, however, harvesting will be on in full swing. The farmers claim the entire crop will be a good average one.

A DOCTOR, A BANKER AND M.P. HOMESTEAD

Three Ontario Brothers on Pleasure Trip, Secure Homestead After Two Days' Wait

A quarter section which is valued at $10,000, was thrown open for re-entry at the land office last week and was caught by three prominent Ontario men who were on a pleasure trip to the west.

Dr. Elliott of Ingersoll, Ont.; J. C. Elliott, member of the Ontario Legislature for West Middlesex, and George Elliott, a banker at Ingersoll, were the fortunate men who happened to be passing through Mackin on the G. T. P. last week, where the homestead is situated, and heard about its being cancelled. They hastened to Edmonton and Dr. Elliott spent one night on the land office steps and saved the coveted homestead in the morning.

He was not first for the homestead, however, and were it not for the fact that the men who were ahead were disqualified he would have gone away disappointed. They were disqualified on the ground that they were already homesteading, but they were not there for themselves, they were keeping the place for a neighbor.

Dr. Elliott and his brothers swelled them in so tight that they had to stay there till morning and so stepping inside were disqualified.

Stay There for Nine Days

Two young men from near Wainwright have commenced a nine days' vigil on the land office steps. They heard of a homestead only one mile from the main line of the G. T. P. near Wainwright, which if they secured would be worth $300 apiece to them, so they came into Edmonton on Saturday night and commenced their long wait. The homestead will be thrown open for re-entry next Tuesday morning at nine o'clock.

NO "PUB" TRUST IN CANADA.

Earl Gray on Temperance—Canada as Uncivilized as England in Regard to High License.

Lord Grey, the founder of the Public House Trust movement, was interviewed prior to leaving for Canada by a representative of the Central Public House Trust Association, who asked him whether the principles of the movement had been adopted in Canada.

"No," said Lord Grey, "Canada in this respect is as uncivilized as England. Temperance reformers on both sides of the Atlantic do not yet appear to have discovered that high licenses make it necessary for the publican to push the sale of alcoholic liquor. High license thus promotes intemperance. When temperance reformers recognize that this is the inevitable effect of high licenses based on rateable value, they will abandon them and resort to the only rational method of taxing public houses—that is by a poundage on alcoholic sales."

Pubs as Clubs.

"Have you any fear that the Trust policy of improving public houses may be discouraged by the increased license duties imposed by the Finance Act of last year?"

"Yes, I think this is a serious danger, but it arises rather from the incidence than from the scale of the duty. A tax based on the rateable value of course penalizes improvements, and makes it difficult for the Public House Trusts to improve their houses and to convert them into respectable clubs."

"Do you agree with the alternative proposal put forward by the Trust companies that taxation should be based on sales?"

"Would Sell Soft Drinks
"Yes, the license duty should certainly be based on the actual trade in alcoholic liquors done at each licensed house. By this means every house would be taxed equally. Where endeavours are made to convert the taste of customers from alcoholics to non-alcoholics and the sales of the former diminish, the house would have its duty lowered accordingly. On the other hand, any increase in the sales of beer or spirits would mean a heavier duty."

LIVE STOCK MARKETS

Rice and Whaley report the following summary of the live stock market in Winnipeg during the past week:

Receipts of stock here for the week were as follows: Cattle, 3,348 head including 1664 direct for export; hogs, 900 head; sheep and lambs, 157 and veals 65 head.

Among the offerings this week were quite a number of good export cattle. About 800 changed hands this week at prices ranging from $25 to $70, delivered, fed and watered.

The medium cattle met with a good outlet. The supply of this kind was rather light and sales showed a higher range than was quoted last week. Over to the busy harvest season being on we would think the run next week would be light and look for steady to strong prices. Good weight feeding steers still continue to be in good demand.

We quote prices this week as follows, fed and watered:

Best export steers$5.50 to $5.75
Fair to good export steers	5.00 to 5.40
Best export heifers 4.50 to 5.25
Best butcher steers 5.00 to 5.50
Fair to good butchers 4.00 to 4.50 steers and heifers 3.75 to 4.25
Best fat cows 3.25 to 3.75
Fair to good cows 2.60 to 2.75
Common cows 2.50 to 3.00
Common bulls 2.50 to 3.00
Good to best feeding	steers, 1000 lbs. up... 4.00 to 4.25
Good to best feeding	steers, 900 to 1000 lbs. 3.65 to 4.00
Stockers, 700 to 800 lbs.	3.25 to 3.50
Light stockers 2.50 to 3.00
The hogs this week sold from $8.25 to $8.50, the bulk of the sales being made at the former price.
Best light weight sheep	$5.50 to $5.00; heavy sheep $5.50 to $5.00, choice lambs, $6 to 7.
Choice veals	$4.50 to $5.00, medium and heavy kinds $3.75 to $4.00.

HIS TICKET SAILS FOR IRELAND

Duffy Couldn't Go With It, at all Because, Dye Sec, It Went First

New York.—Patrick Duffy, of West Philadelphia, bought a ticket entitling him to return to his native land in the third cabin of the Cunarder Mauretania, which sailed yesterday. He stowed the ticket away in his trunk and sent the trunk by express to the Cunard pier. It arrived and was put aboard. Later Duffy also arrived and was asked for his ticket. He said it was aboard in his trunk. Therefore the trunk sailed without him. He may pay for another ticket and go by another ship and when he presents the ticket that he has in his trunk to the Cunard Line office in Liverpool he will get his money back. He regretted that he did not think of putting his ticket in his grip, which he brought to the pier with him.

CARRYING POWER OF SOUND

Thunder is never heard more than fourteen miles from the flash of lightning. The report of artillery has reached much greater distances. The cannonading at the battle of Waterloo was heard at the town of Grell, in the north of France, about one hundred and fifteen miles from the scene of the conflict.

Fly Catches.

Catcher McLean of the Cincinnati Reds says that the new pitcher purchased from Chicago, Bill Burns, has the best slow ball that he ever saw a left hander display.

Fred Tenney's contract with the Lowell club of the New England league is as a player only, and it is stipulated that he will be released at the end of the season.

Outfielder Derry Jones of the Detroit Tigers is surely having his third least of life. He never played better ball and is getting on the bases often than any other man in the game.

Jake Daubert of Brooklyn is the classiest young first baseman who has broken into the league since the advent of Dick Hobbs. He is very quick, is a wonderful handler of thrown balls and a dangerous left handed batsman.

Clay Pipes.
The largest clay pipe factory in the world is in Apopattox county, Va. The clay found in that section is especially adapted to this use.

Density of Population.
The density of population in the German empire is 305 to the square mile. What that means may be grasped by considering that if the United States were as thickly populated as Germany it would have 500,000,000 people—ten times the present population.

Western Siberia.
Western Siberia is seven times as large as the German empire.

Catan Sanderson

By HALLIE ERMINE RIVES,
Author of "Hearts Courageous," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1908, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

"Don't smoke," said Harry with much contempt. "Don't you suppose I know a deck of cards when I see it?" The thin air on Hugh's brow reddened. He thrust into his pocket the pasteboards he had made an instinctive move to conceal and buttoned the coat around him. It fitted sufficiently. "Look here, Harry," he began, "you were a good fellow in the old days. I'm sorry I never paid you the money I borrowed. I would have but for what happened. But you won't go back on me now, will you? I want to get out of the country and begin over again somewhere. Will you loan me the money to do it?"

Hugh was eager and voluble now. The man to whom he appealed was his old friend. He had come with an intention of throwing himself upon his former's mercy. He had wished to see and talk to him in the world but him.

"If you will, I'll never forget it, Harry," he cried. "Never, the longest day of my life. I'll use every dollar of it just as I say. I will, on my honor." "Honor!" he said. "Have you enough to swear by? You are what you are because you are a bad egg. You were born a gentleman, but you choose to be a rogue. Do you know the meaning of the word honor or right or justice? Have you a single purpose of mind which isn't crooked?"

"You're just like the rest, then," Hugh retorted. "Just because I did that one thing you'll give me no more chance. Yet the first thing I did with that money was to square myself. I paid every debt of honor I had. That's why I'm in the hole now. But I get no credit for it, even from you. I wish you could put yourself in my place."

Harry had been looking steadily at the sailor face with its bold print of the satyr, not seeing it, but hearing his own voice say to Jessica: "I was my brother's keeper. I see it now." And out of the distance, it seemed, his voice answered:

"Put myself in your place! I wish I could! I wish to God I could!"

The exclamation was involuntary, automatic, the cumulative expression of every throes of conscience Harry had endured since then, the voice of remorse that had cried insistently for reparation, dining in his ears the fatal question that God asked of Cain. Suddenly a whirl of rage seized him, unmeasured, savage, malicious. He had despised Hugh, now he hated him—hated him because he was Jessica's husband and more than all, because he was the symbol of his own self abasement. A daredevil side of the old Satan Sanderson that he had claimed and bared rose up and took him by the throat. He struck the oak wainscoting with his fist, feeling a red mist grow before his eyes.

"So you paid every debt of honor you had, eh? You acknowledge a gentleman's honor, but not the obligation of right action between man and man? Very well. Give me that pack of cards. You want money—here it is!"

He swiftly turned the clicking combination of the safe, wrenched open the door and took out two heavy canvas bags. He snatched the cord from the neck of one of these, and a ringing stream of double eagles swept flinging on the table. He dropped his hand in the yellow pile. A thought came as the hoofs of runaway horses were careening through his brain. He felt an old lightness of mind, a sense of tingling of every nerve and muscle. "Here is two thousand dollars—yours if you will it—for you shall play for it, you gambler, who pays his debts of honor and no other! You shall play fair and straight, if you never play again!"

Hugh stared at Harry in a startled way. This was not the mild, friendly Harry Sanderson he had known—this figure with the white, infuriate face, the sparkling eyes and the strange, veiled look. This reminded him of the reckless spirit of his college days, that he had patterned after and had stood in awe of.

"How can I play," he said, "when you know very well I haven't a sou marked?"

Harry stuffed the gold back into the bag. He snatched the cards from Hugh's hand and a box of waxen envelope wafers from his desk. "There was a strange light in his eye, a tremor in his fingers.

"It is I who play with money!" he said. "My soul against your counters! Each of those hundred red disks represents a day of your life—a day, do you understand—a real day of your sin! A day of yours against a double eagle! What you win you keep. But for every counter I win you shall pay me one straight, white day, a clean day, lived for decency and for the right!"

Hugh's eyes were fastened on the bag in Harry's fingers. Two thousand dollars! If luck came his way he could go so far on that—far enough to escape the nameless terror that pursued him in every shadow. Money against red wafers? Why, it was plenty if he won, and if he lost he had staked nothing. What a fool Harry was!

Harry saw the shrewd, calculating look that came to his eye. He caught his wrist. "Not here!" he said hoarsely. He flung open the chapel door and pushed him aside. He seized one of the altar candles, lit it with a match and stuck it upright in its own on the small communion table that stood just inside the altar rail, with the cards, the red wafers and the bags of coin. He dragged two chairs forward.

"Now," he said in a strained voice, "put up your hand—your right hand—swear before this altar on the gambler's honor you boast of, win or lose, to abide by this game!"

Hugh shrunk. He was superstitious.

"I swear I will," he said. The calculating look had died. He glanced half fearfully about him—at Harry's white face—at the light altar with its vases of August lilies; at the great rose window, now a mass of white, opaque blotches on which the three black crosses stood out with weird distinctness; at the lurking, unlighted shadows in the corners. He looked longingly at the gold, shining yellow in the candle light. It fascinated him.

He lifted his hand. It was trembling. "I swear I will," he said. "I'll stand by the cards, Harry, and for every day you win I'll walk a chalk line, so help me God!"

Harry Sanderson sat down. He emptied one of the bags at his elbow and pushed the box of wafers across the table. He shuffled the cards swiftly, and "Your deal!" he said.

Chapter 9

HALLELUJAH! JONAS had finished his labor for the night. The crowd had grown restive and finally melted away, and his audience gone, he folded the camp stool, turned off the gasoline flare, shut down the lit of his melodeon and trundled it up the street.

As he pushed up the street he came to a great motor car standing at the corner of the great rose window. Moving softly over the crooked grass, he approached, lifted one of the hinged panels and peered in. Two men were there, behind the altar railing, seated at the communion table.

He noticed now a dim flicker that lit one corner of the great rose window. Moving softly over the crooked grass, he approached, lifted one of the hinged panels and peered in. Two men were there, behind the altar railing, seated at the communion table.

Hallelujah! Jonas started back. There on the table was a bag of coin and counters. They were playing—he heard the clink of the cards on the hard floor. (To be continued)

KILLED HIMSELF WHILE INSANE

Jury in Case of Death of Walter Watts Brought in Verdict of Insanity

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was brought in by the jury yesterday at the instance of the body of Walter Watts, who was found dead near his shack on the Stony Plain road. Walter Watts' brother, Benjamin Arthur Watts, was at the inquest.

The first witness, David Stirling, who works on the farm at Mr. Armstrong, near Watts' shack, told how he had gone to Watts' place to get some tobacco that he had asked him to get for him. He found the tobacco lying on a stool propping the door open, but that no one was in the house. He went to a neighbor's house, named Hall, and enquired for him there and then on to a man named Saunders, who went back with him and examined the shack.

While they were doing so two small boys came along asking their way. The boys went up on the road, but soon came back, saying that they had seen the body of a man. Stirling and Saunders then went over and found the body of Watts on the ground with a shot gun between his knees. They came away immediately and told a man who was passing on his way to town to telephone for the police.

Police Saw Body
Corporal Miller, who with Corporal Marshall went out in a rig to see in charge of the body, described how he had found it and when asked his opinion as to how he died said that he thought that he leant against a tree which was covered with blood and held the muzzle of the gun in his left hand to his left eye and then by means of the forked stick which was found lying beside him, pulled the trigger, thereby discharging the gun.

Mr. Griesbach asked to be shown the exact position of the butt of the gun, which was shown to him, he on the ground on a level with the ankles.

Corporal Marshall corroborated Miller's evidence, but stated that he wished to add that the fingers of the right hand which was lying on his thigh with the arm fully extended, were stretched out all except the little and third fingers.

Questioned by Mr. Griesbach, Benjamin Watts stated that there were a number of boxes of the same make of the shack and that he and his brother sometimes went out to shoot them. Further he said that he did not know of any troubles that would cause his brother to commit suicide.

"Was there any box of the same make of the shack?" asked the coroner. "Yes," said Mr. Watts, "but that was in my name."

Mr. Watts then said that his brother had been subject to epileptic fits in the old country before he came to Canada, but that he had not had any since he came out, which was four years ago.

The last two witnesses gave evidence to the effect that the deceased was an average strong minded man not especially given to worrying. Their names are Clifford Mucknough and Arthur Wright.

Was Not Insured
Mr. Watts was then recalled and questioned as to whether his brother had been insured, which he said he had not, but that he was a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and that he did not know if he was entitled to the death benefit of $100. It was then discovered that a member who dies by his own hand does not get any death benefit. The deceased however, would not be entitled to it in any case.

Mr. Griesbach then addressed the jury, beginning by explaining to them that a man is guilty under the law if he tries to take his own life and that should he succeed the burden falls upon his relatives. He said for this reason he was attending the inquest. Mr. Griesbach then suggested that he had died by accident, and showed how that if he had leant against a tree and shot himself the gun which had no firm resting place would have recoiled away from him instead of coming to rest on a level with his ankles as it was found.

AMALGAMATION OF UNITED AIDS AND CHILDREN'S AID

To the Capital:
Dear Sir,—I have read article in your Saturday issue on the above subject to what extent I could personally follow the suggestion, I am at this moment uncertain. The two branches are so dissimilar, requiring natures and creations so different, and the confusion that I am afraid would result in combining, would make even an experiment costly. Once I thought of matters, inquiries from all parts of Canada and America and Europe come to the Aid on some subject or other. Then over the phone a continuous stream of reports reach the office. Investigation work is at once set on foot. Homes are visited. Hospitals, conducting funerals, attending to cases not belonging to the city, and directing them into channels to which they properly belong. Food and clothing supplies attended to; a Mr. Editor, out of this sum another complete set of books kept to the satisfaction of the official auditors. Any person found soliciting alms in the city are told of the illegal practice and sent to the aids, who, if destitute, will provide bed, food, and work. This is not all the day's routine of work performed by Inspector Turnbull. Can there be a busier man in the city, or one performing duties more necessary to the well-governed of the city. Street begging has been entirely eliminated by the work of the Aids. I cannot imagine Mr. Webb having sufficient leisure to do this in addition, nor can I believe Mr. Turnbull could do in addition the work or any part of it Mr. Webb is engaged in.

The work of the United Aids has lessened municipal expenditure by many thousands of dollars, taken off the city shoulders a great responsibility and care, and in less than six months found employment for 400 persons. Lucky indeed is a city with so much wealth and so many people whose expenditure in poor law work cost no more than $1500 per annum.

will provide bed, food, and work. This is not all the day's routine of work performed by Inspector Turnbull. Can there be a busier man in the city, or one performing duties more necessary to the well-governed of the city. Street begging has been entirely eliminated by the work of the Aids. I cannot imagine Mr. Webb having sufficient leisure to do this in addition, nor can I believe Mr. Turnbull could do in addition the work or any part of it Mr. Webb is engaged in.

The work of the United Aids has lessened municipal expenditure by many thousands of dollars, taken off the city shoulders a great responsibility and care, and in less than six months found employment for 400 persons. Lucky indeed is a city with so much wealth and so many people whose expenditure in poor law work cost no more than $1500 per annum.

Mr. Editor, out of this sum another complete set of books kept to the satisfaction of the official auditors. Any person found soliciting alms in the city are told of the illegal practice and sent to the aids, who, if destitute, will provide bed, food, and work. This is not all the day's routine of work performed by Inspector Turnbull. A FEW CHOICE LOTS ON AL-

MODERN LIFE WOULD BE TOO HARD ON THE NERVES IF IT WERE NOT FOR WANT ADVERTISING!

The pace of life has become tense.

Worries, disappointments, up-sets at home and office, losses, discouragements seem to multiply as daily life becomes more complex.

The property owner, who MUST have a steady income from rents or lose his property, is "racked" by the untimely defection of a tenant. Some classified advertising quickly retrieves his loss—and quiets his nerves!

The salary earner unexpectedly loses his position—and his peace of mind. The strain would shortly "break" something in his nervous system if, once more, want advertising did not find the better job—and restore to him his mental equilibrium.

In every phase of the city's life, every day, the want ads play the part of the peace-maker. They SERVE you and me at some crisis in our lives—and keep the modern pace and tension from proving too fast and tight for us.

Truly, the want ads ARE FOR SERVICE!

DETECTIVE HAD HIS THROAT CUT

Was Found Lying in Alley Way in Sydney, Nova Scotia

WORK ON MURDER CASE

Apparently He Was Alone on His Quest to Find Restelli, the Murderer

Sydney, N.S., Aug. 16.—W. Griffin, ostensibly a detective from Quincey, Mass., in this section of the country to follow up Restelli, the Quincey double murderer, was found with his throat cut nearly from ear to ear in an alley way here this morning. He had been dead for some hours.

At midnight he had been engaged in conversation with Chief McEachern. His talk at the time was of an article taken from the Quincey papers. Griffin has been in this vicinity for two weeks. He has been little in communication with the local police, but he has told many people with whom he has been in conversation that he was a Quincey detective engaged upon the Restelli case. When the man lay on his face about the middle of the alley way, when he was discovered by workmen who had to pass through the alley.

Was Working Alone
Quincey, Mass., Aug. 16.—Griffin found this morning. "Throat cut" was the text of a message received today by Police Chief Burrell, of Quincey, from Chief McEachern, of Sydney, Griffin, who is supposed to belong to the Quincey police, was found in a search for Luigi Restelli, the Italian stone worker who killed two persons and wounded three others in this city three weeks ago.

TO REPAIR GAS ENGINE

The Allis-Chalmers Company, of Milwaukee, with which firm the city commissioners had much correspondence in reference to repairs to the gas engine, have refused to accept the agreement made by their representative, Mr. Laiza, who was here some time ago holding a conference with the commissioners. The city commissioners, however, have notified the company to proceed with the work of repair and stated that they would withdraw their request in reference to the plans.

PROVINCE ON BED OF OIL

J. A. Grant Believes That Vast Oil Field Underlies Whole Province

Joseph A. Grant of Wabash, Alaska, who arrived in the city yesterday to make preparations for the carrying out of a contract which he has with the city of Wetaskiwin for the drilling of a 2,000-foot gas well.

Mr. Grant says that he is convinced that underlying the gas fields of Alberta there is a vast field of oil and that it is only necessary to drill deep enough to obtain it. None of the wells he drilled at Medicine Hat went as deep as 2,000 feet, therefore it is thought possible that oil might be struck.

The contract with Wetaskiwin was secured by Mr. Grant for $15,000 and will take about a year. The outfit which Mr. Grant has bought in Edmonton he obtained from Mr. Alex Taylor and is described by Mr. Grant as one of the most complete that can be obtained.

Northrop, of Lloydminster, was to have met Garret, of Calgary, in the final of the men's single championship today, but owing to the rain the match could not be played. It may be put on next Saturday. Northrop is a former American and is a very fast player.
